Caricature your family & friends

A caricature is a representation of a persons most outstanding features, apart from an ability to draw it is also necessary to be able to recognise these features. Ask yourself what makes this particular person recognisable, then exaggerate those features.

Drawing is all about observation, observe and understand how the object you are drawing is constructed. For faces, the grid I have drawn gives the locations of the main facial features on an average person. use this as a starting point.

Of course drawing is also all about practice, practice, practice.

And remember the point of this model is about having fun so don't worry about the quality of your drawing, the more you practice the better you will become.

Use the following guide to locate facial features
